NEW QUESTION: 1

You have a Microsoft Azure SQL data warehouse to which 1,000 Data Warehouse Units (DWUs) are allocated.

You plan to load 10 million rows of data to the data warehouse.

You need to load the data in the least amount of time possible. The solution must ensure that queries against the new data execute as quickly as possible.

What should you use to optimize the data load?

- A. resource pools
- B. MAXDOP
- C. resource classes
- D. Resource Governor

Answer: C

Explanation:

Explanation/Reference:

Explanation:

Resource classes are pre-determined resource limits that govern query execution. SQL Data Warehouse limits the compute resources for each query according to resource class.

Resource classes help you manage the overall performance of your data warehouse workload. Using resource classes effectively helps you manage your workload by setting limits on the number of queries that run concurrently and the compute-resources assigned to each query.

Smaller resource classes use less compute resources but enable greater overall query concurrency

Larger resource classes provide more compute resources but restrict the query concurrency

NEW QUESTION: 2

Protecting the confidentiality of a message is accomplished by encrypting the message with which of the following?

- A. Recipient's public key
- B. Sender's public key
- C. Recipient's private key
- D. Sender's private key

Answer: A

Explanation:

To achieve both authentication and confidentiality, the sender should include the recipient's name in the message, sign it using his private key, and then encrypt both the message and the signature using the recipient's public key.

Incorrect Answers:

A. The sender's private key is used to generate a digital signature, which is used for authentication.

C. The sender's public key is not used for encrypting the message.

D. The recipient's private key is used to decrypt the message.
